

This was a recycled sermon at the last minute. Mason was down and out with the freakishly contagious and draining "2008 Elizabeth City Flu" and I was asked to speak. This was "Today You Will Be With Me In Paradise" again with some strange scripture incorporated (strange as in not similar to each other or my message at all- I'm sure Mason's planned "Quit Your Job. It's the Will of God" would have pulled it all together, though).
